As a sophisticated half-back upholstered chair, this version combines finely modeled demilune shaping with a simple pole leg construction. The design is based on an original set of circa 1940's Paul Frankl Chairs with the same low-slung disposition and generous widths. Oval-shaped stretchers and a row of fine button tufting across the backrest help to create a softer look. Consider this comfortable chair for occasional seating alone or in pairs, in the dressing room or at the desk, as well as at the dining table. By Thomas O'Brien for Hickory Chair.
